THIS IS THE AURORAN FOR 1941

- It is the yearbook of Muscatine High School at Muscatine, Iowa. The Auroran was written and produced by Juanita Wecksung, editor; Jean Miller, assistant editor; Stanley Howe, business manager; and Clara Louise Bloom, advertising manager.

The readers of this book will informally relive the experiences of Musky students and faculty during their second year in Muscatine's half-million dollar highschool building. The pictures and copy will show the 449 boys and 547 girls enrolled at M. H. S. reciting in classrooms, practising with the football squad, discussing current topics in the halls, playing in the newly organized band, dancing at school parties, and even working at local places of business on Saturday.

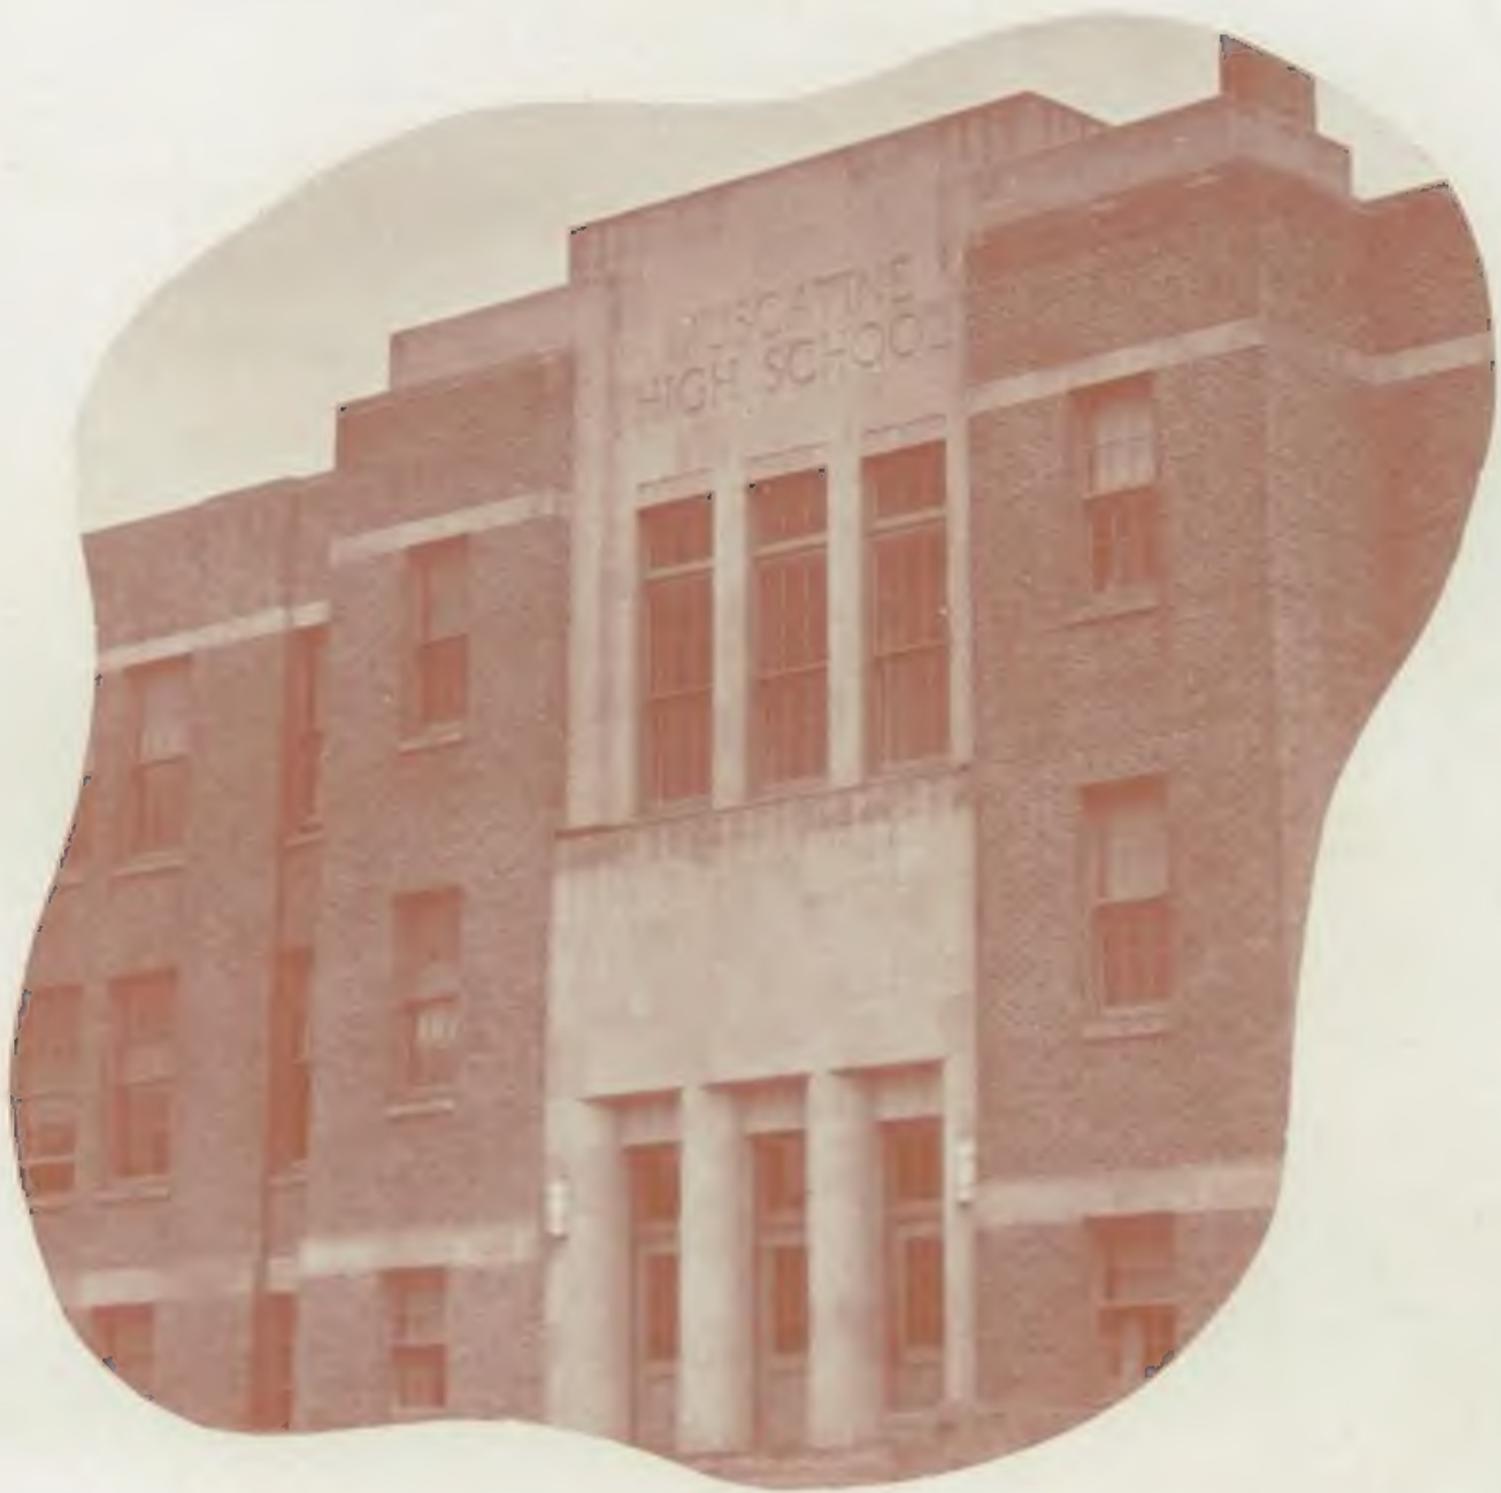

'Nough said—let's turn the page and begin the story of the 1940-41 school year.

The AURORAN for 1941

PRESENTED BY THE STUDENT BODY OF
MUSCATINE HIGH SCHOOL AT MUSCATINE, IOWA
VOLUME XXXIV

OUR SCHOOL

● Muscatine High School is typical of thousands of high schools in America. Every schoolday the average Musky tumbles out of bed, washes the sleep from his eyes, dons his clothes, downs his breakfast, and arrives at his first period class by 8:40 in time to spend four hours in recitation and at least two more in study and extracurricular interests.

Our school directors organize all students into four general groups—freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors; the Auroran, however, classifies Muskies in the yearbook's various divisions according to activities: the scholars and honor-winners; the musicians, speakers, and debaters; the athletes; and the miscellaneous activity groups.

Now that the reader has a rough idea of the general types of people that make up our school's enrollment, let's examine a few general views of the building.

This is the auditorium.

BUILDING

Gym Seats 2500

• Having three floors, our building is built in two main wings at the corner of Cedar and Ninth Streets. The gym seats 2500, the auditorium accommodates 1387, the cafeteria is equipped to serve 200, and the library holds about 160 students. So much for statistics.

It's required over a year for the school's inhabitants to take full advantage of the improved facilities of their new home. Students have formed better study habits in the modernistic library, classrooms, and laboratories; the athletes have experienced the thrill of playing in a streamlined gymnasium; the dramatists and musicians have learned to utilize the auditorium, the little theater, the band room, and the practise chambers; and the organizations have made special use of the social room.

To the right is the trophy case in the auditorium foyer.

● This is a favorite corner of the social room. Most everybody managed to look into the recreation room at least once a day to listen to popular recordings on the combination radio-phonograph, and to discuss the latest happenings. During the noon hour industrious students studied lessons or read popular magazines in this cheerful atmosphere. While the intellectuals pondered over chess boards, the Muskies with extra pep engaged in spirited games of ping pong.

Verdant freshmen lost their self consciousness and learned social ease by becoming informally acquainted with poised upperclassmen. All students learned to improve their manners and appearances with the result that many of them have become more versatile individuals.

● To the casual passerby the exterior of M. H. S. presented a tranquil picture of industry. That is, unless he walked by at 11:50 or at 3:55 when students were dismissed from school.

Basketball players, the male ballet in the homemaking carnival, and the Fun N'ters helped to cram this year full of red letter days.

Our past year at Muscatine created

● Many exciting events which occurred between early September and late May served to liven up the 1940-41 school year. During the basket ball and football seasons our athletes occupied the spotlight of student attention.

Assembly entertainers also basked in the lime-light when they appeared before the student body in the highschool auditorium. Among the most outstanding speakers and concert artists were Rubinoff, a well-known violinist; William Wright, a basso-baritone; Bob Feller, a big league baseball pitcher; the Fraunfelder family, Swiss yodelers; Captain Theodore Stern, lie-detector demonstrator; and Captain Corley P. McDarment, aviation lecturer.

About the biggest thrill of the year came when the school board appointed Harold Breese as band director. A tireless worker, he has organized Muskies into one of the most promising highschool bands in Iowa. Another big event happened during spring vacation when "the powers that be" installed the new address system.

The debaters, the dramatists, the journalists, the agriculturists, the declaimers, the musicians, and the athletes attended contests and conventions which added to the year's highlights.

SUPERIOR WORKERS IN THE INDUSTRIES - MARCH

TRANSPORTATION

Muskies Arrive Casually

• Musky countenances often revealed the mood to which their owners were inclined. (or otherwise) transported themselves to M. H. S. It's an accurate guess that the bright eyes and alert look had had eight or nine hours of sleep.

In good weather more than half the body walked to school. In bicycles and motorcycles, or in taxis. Every school day from 7 a.m. the stream of students went all parts of Muscatine and vicinity.

One of the most picturesque groups was the bicyclists. They usually traveled in groups of three or four and parked their bikes in long rows outside the building. The cars of rural students became familiar to Cedar Street residents since they were parked on this street most of the day. Muskies who arrived fifteen minutes to discuss their students' day.

In bad weather students exchanged customary clothing and modes of travel for more suitable ways and means. These facts will be interesting to future generations.

On rainy days Muskies carried umbrellas, wore rubbers and raincoats or the reversible coats that were so popular this year. Mothers bundled their offsprings snugly into heavy winter coats, overshoes, hats, fuzzy earmuffs, and woolen gloves. The bus companies ran extra busses for the convenience of schoolers. Bicycles and motor scooters temporarily discontinued their services, which helped to rush the cab drivers.

On unseasonable days the cafeteria line was

More students gathered in the halls during the noon hour. Our school's absent and tardy mounted considerably on these days.

OUR SCHOOL

These Are the Scholars and Honor-Winners

● This is not the section for "apple polishers" but the division for scholarly Muskies who were outstanding in character, leadership, industry, and popularity. No matter how indifferent to school a student may appear to be, he almost always seems to have the ambition to some day, somehow, be included in this group.

This year very few people disputed the choice of the student body and faculty in selecting the individuals for membership in the various honorary organizations of M. H. S. In this stage of the game everyone's pretty anxious to evidence their appreciation of the efforts of school lead-

The Musky with average intelligence who applies himself to his lessons frequently surpasses the brighter student who is too indolent to study.

SCHOLARS, HONOR-WINNERS

Minority of True Scholars; Facsimilies Try To Substitute

• Just like other schools, M. H. S. has a minority of true scholars, and a majority of mediocre students. The true scholars of our school have better-than-average mentality and honestly apply themselves to their schoolwork. As well as achieving the highest scholastic awards, this group has earned membership in the honorary organizations of our school.

The students who aren't doing so well are many times not succeeding because of their lack of pure application to their studies. Five of the chief types of scholastic failures are the "apple polishers," who try to impress their teachers and not their lessons; the "clock-watchers," who watch clocks instead of books; the "borrowers," who never bring their own equipment to class; and the "bluffers," who monopolize the class room conversation in order to keep it off the track.

Very few times did a facsimile successfully deceive the teachers in our school. As a general rule the top-flight scholars were the high ranking leaders in extracurricular activities. For this reason there are many duplications in the personnel of this section.

Muskies Learn by Doing

• Six hours a day, five days a week, ten weeks each month, more or less, have all their time students of our school spent in classrooms. While in these classrooms, students take key tests, make "A" grades, start and run a newspaper, teach subjects, make up chemistry compounds, translate Greek, and do my number of things included in the program of modern education.

Besides the ordinary curriculum students found special class projects interesting and worthwhile. Young boys and girls grew beans of interest open to them when they undertook the task of planting, caring for guppies, growing mint spores, and examining bacteria under the powerful microscope.

An industrial ecology student looks through a microscope research work

The girls in cooking classes learned to make delectable top delicious chocolate cakes. Out of cooking comes they make use of the culinary art in preparing and serving meals to the faculty members. Mechanic drawing class had the boys checking the construction plans of modern make of cars. In future business men and women spent class time learning how to conduct business transactions. Then they applied the material they had learned by keeping the books of an imaginary firm.

● The average student's day consisted of four classes and two study halls. Of course, there were those lucky seniors who had the privilege of roaming around the halls after their one or two classes were over.

While some classes were learning that every sentence has at least one subject and one verb, others were ill about Napoleon's conquest. Other classes were learning by actual doing.

Chemistry students found that the best way of understanding some of the more difficult chemical theories was to try some experiments. This would show the whys and wherefore's.

Down in the print shop, the students learned the fundamentals of the trade by actually setting type. They learned all about the different sizes and styles of type. Along with studying these principles, the boys experienced some of the trials of typesetters when they mixed up the type into a big pile.

At least one period a day students went to the library to study. Although the library was primarily a place to prepare the next day's assignments, everyone found some excellent reading material in the magazine room and in the bookselves. The Student Council supervised this study hall.

TOP: Here is a scene from the farm shop. CENTER: Clark Brown's boys bound books. BOTTOM: Sewing girls stitched along "so-so"

- The curriculum nowadays includes so many subjects other than lessons learned from a textbook. Day after day Muskies found themselves looking forward to some class that diverted their energies from the pains of book learning.

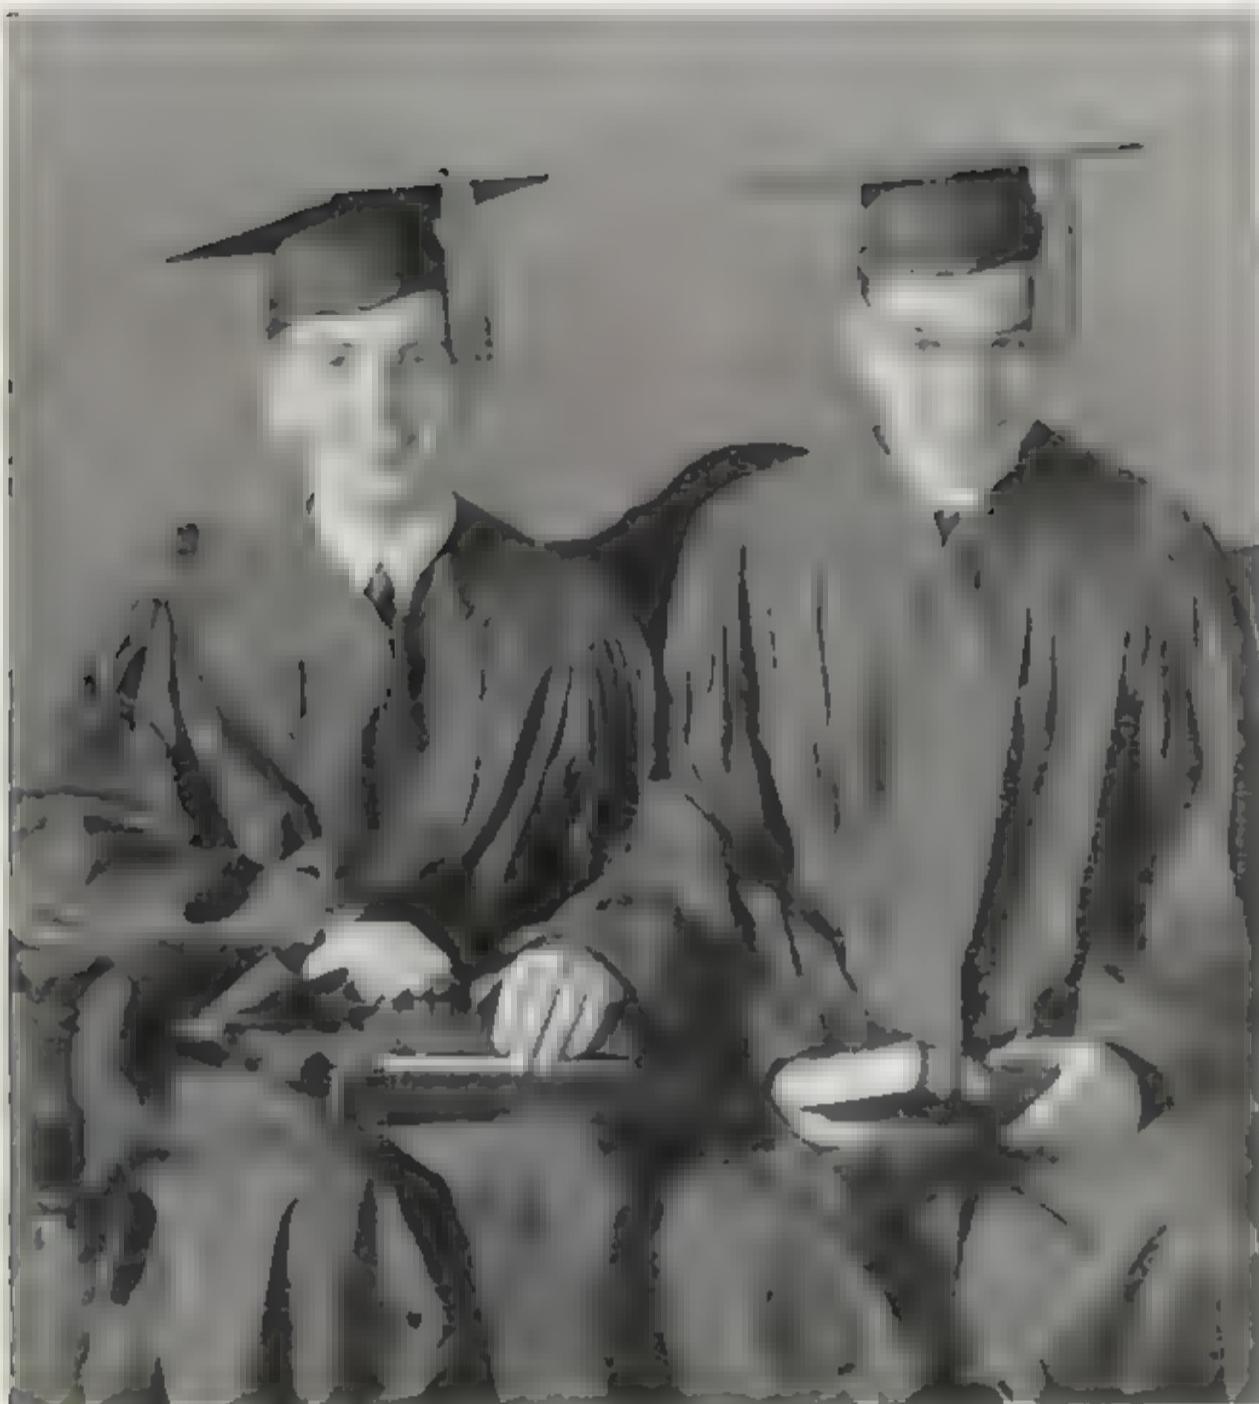

Each and everyone of the students liked a class that offered him an opportunity for using his creative ability or a class that more or less allowed him to work at his own pace. These were the main reasons why classes such as home mechanics, farm shop, and home economics were so popular with Musky students.

The country lads found the subject of farm shop worthwhile. Even a few of the city boys enrolled to see what went on behind the scenes of future farmers' varied activities. The agricultural classes learned all sorts of things that a farmer should know—how to keep farm implements in repair, how to operate different types of farm machinery, how to judge live stock, and facts about soil erosion and crop rotation.

Home mechanics proved to be the place where Musky lads enrolled to learn the art of woodworking and all that went with that art. Every so often, though, they took a little vacation from the ordinary line of work and tried their hand at bookbinding.

Anyone who is familiar with the layout of M. H. S. knows that on the bottom floor in the Cedar Street wing, rooms 102 to 112 make up the homemaking department. They know that here is where the future home makers obtain a lot of their training. Right in the middle of the department is the sewing center. During the past year all the young seamstresses from freshmen girls up, improved their sewing skill. Besides learning how to make wearing apparel, they branched out and learned the correct way to paint, stain, and varnish furniture, as well as how to make simple pieces of furniture from orange crates

Albert Goss and Stanley Howe considered being scholastically high a happy event.

CO-VALEDICTORIANS

Albie Goss, Stan Howe Win Top Honors

• Debater vs. journalist — In the second successive year a Musky debater and a Musky journalist have tied for the title of valedictorian of our graduating class. With grade point averages of 3.89, journalist Stanley Howe and debater Albert Goss tied for the highest possible scholastic award, each having received three B's during his four years of high school.

Since freshman days, both Albie and Stan have set excellent examples for their classmates. Teachers depended on these two for the right answers to difficult questions and for top grades in tests. Finding the boys conscientious in carrying out responsibilities, their friends elected them to many offices in the organizations of our school. Although both boys participated in different activities, each made an exceptional record in his chosen field.

Affiliated with Auroran organizations for three years, Stan kept three sets of books and publication funds meticulously; he also worked out many important technical details of the 1940 and 1941 Annual Aurorans. Albie concentrated on speech work for the past four years, earning the Decree of Distinction and ranking fourteenth in the country in the number of points in N. F. L.

REPRESENTATIVE GIRL, BOY

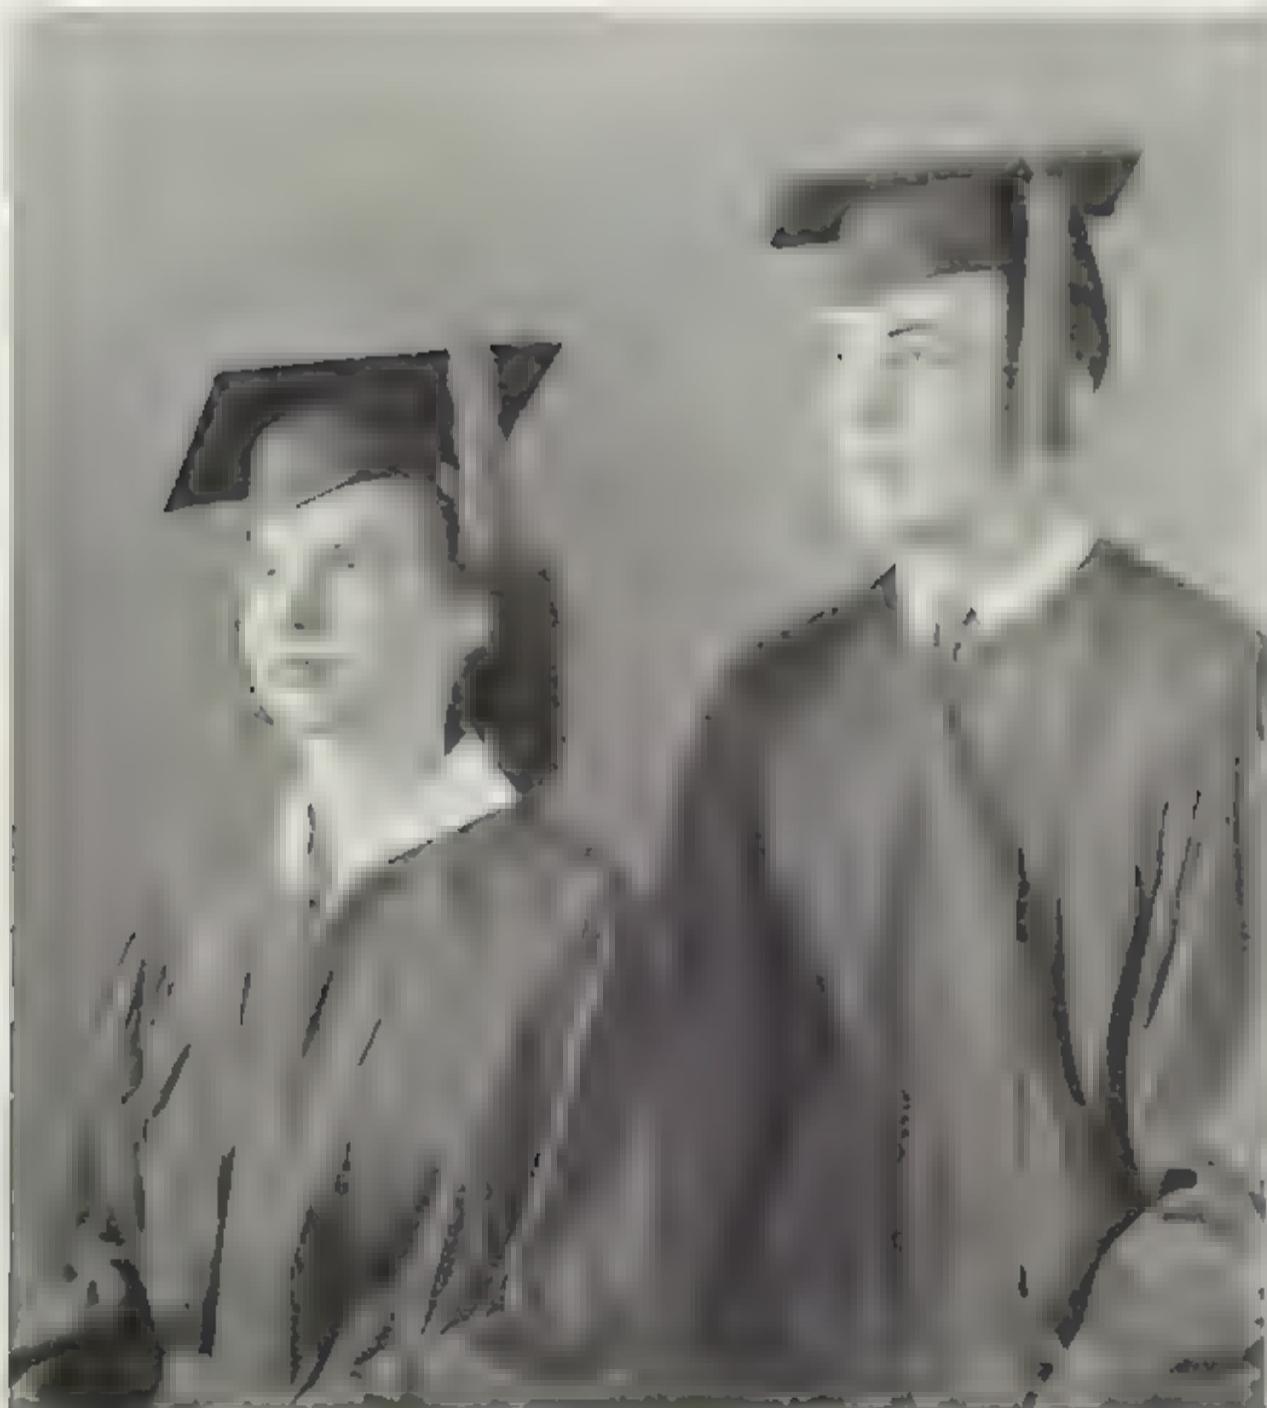

Lu Steinmetz, Vern Hoffman Elected

• Our student body elected two outstanding leaders of the senior class, Lu Steinmetz and Vern Hoffman, to be the titles of representative girl and boy. This is the supreme recognition a Musky may receive for his efforts to become an ideal student.

Lu is a talented musician and actress. As well as winning top national honors as a pianist, she accompanied vocal groups, acted in school plays, ranked third scholastically, and composed music for the M. H. S. dance band. Lucille is noted for her friendliness, dependability, and efficiency.

Vern's admirable traits include courage, honesty, loyalty, and sportsmanship. He is a good student, a leader at Musky, and a member of the basketball team. He is also a class officer. Vern helped to direct senior activities in the capacity of class vice-president.

Lu and Vern are probably the most likely to succeed in the senior class for they have mastered the art of getting along with people.

Lucille Steinmetz and Vernon Hoffman will probably climb to new heights of achievement after graduation.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

Faculty Feels These Students Rate

• This particular group of honor winners deserved little as a group, but as individuals they had the student body in both the familiar and extraordinary ways. Faculty selected a percentage of the upper school district to be of the junior and senior classes to stand for the school's highest ideals of scholarship, leadership, service, and character. The thirteen senior members of National Honor Society elected their junior year were Lucille Steinmetz, George Parks, Stanley Howe, Jeane McCulley, Betty Eppel, Laura Mae Feldman, Dorothy Glatstein, Albert Goss, Clara Louise Bloom, Juanita Wecksung, Richard Kidd, Jackie Goetz, and Betty Custer.

Completing the list of honor students in the graduating class, Waunita Farrier, Dorothy Knight, DeLores Dywiak, Marian Kautz, Maxine Romig, Patricia Johnson, Genevieve Crow, Esther Schultz, and Bernard Campbell proved their right to membership during their senior year in the estimation of the faculty. The nine Muskies selected from the junior class were Ethelyn Johnston, Mary Ann Hakes, Tommy Young, Jack Toussaint, Joan McKee, Dorothy Spratt, Jeanne Ruthenberg, Jean Miller, and Leo Baker. The seniors of two years standing initiated the new members at a candle-light service on class day in the traditional manner.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Honor System Ranks High In Iowa

• We're really proud of the honor system we have in our school. Our honor study hall in the library is considered one of the most successful in the state. Of course, all the students are responsible for the success of this system, but our Student Council members are student directors of the plan.

As they have done other years, the Student Council supervised the library, managed the hall-monitor system, and dealt out punishment to the ruthless. Like every other organization this governing body has the problem of finances. To help themselves along this line the Student Council conducted a school pencil sale. Some of this money was indirectly remitted to the students through free dances they sponsored after the . . .

This year, with a view toward making students of our school more conscientious in study, the Student Council prepared study hints. Muskies glued these forms on the fly-leaves of free textbooks. The forms listed the correct ways to study, the right habits to use while preparing lessons, the ways to arrange work and to memorize material, and the types of books to use for reference work.

The officers for the year were Tex Kidd, president; Albert Goss, vice-president; and Stanley Howe, secretary-treasurer.

NATIONAL FORENSIC LEAGUE

Our Speakers Earn Special Degrees

• N. F. L. is a short abbreviation for a tall meaning—National Forensic League. On its roll of members are the outstanding people in the speech department of our school. This organization is an honorary society for high schools that are especially active in interschool forensic contests. Our local chapter, one of the oldest in Iowa, is eleven years old.

The members of this group have earned special degrees to signify the amount of competition experienced. Albert Goss, Leo Baker, Walter Berg, Dale Goss, and Shirlee Levin attained the degree of distinction in our chapter. Albert has a total of 417 points, which is more than anyone in Muscatine has ever earned.

At the national contest for N. F. L. chapters at Lexington, Kentucky, April 2 to May 2, the chapter of our school received the distinguished service plaque. This plaque, the first ever to be presented to an Iowa high school, honored our chapter for distinguished service in furthering the work of the national organization.

The officers of this division for the past year were Albert Goss, president; Leo Baker, vice-president; Anita Schmidt, secretary; and Walter Berg, recording secretary. Miss H. Margaret Kemble and G. Bradford Barber served as faculty advisors of this group.

QUILL AND SCROLL

Journalists Learn Dependability

• These are the honor journalists of M. H. S., who learned more than just the definitions of the words dependability, initiative, aggressiveness, tact, tact, and hard work. In order to receive appointment to Quill and Scroll, international honor society for highschool journalists, fourteen of the grid skating group ranked in the upper scholastic fourth of their class as well as had two years of outstanding Auroran work to their credit.

As a junior Juanita Weeksang edited the weekly newspaper and during her fourth year on the staff she was responsible for the '41 Annual. Stan Howe served in the capacity of business manager and Annual technician in his junior and senior years. For two years Juanita Embree and Esther Schultz spent long hours cutting copy for both publications. Managing the advertising for both the weekly and Annual was the duty of Clara Louise Bloom. Tex Kidd wrote the sports sections of the '40 and '41 Annuals as well as supervised the weekly sports page.

Patricia Johnson and Marian Kautz were commanding editors of this year's weekly Auroran. Betty Kern, news editor, Genevieve Crow, art editor, and Maxine Ronning, feature editor, assisted Pat and Marian in getting out the weekly. Bernard Campbell, make up man, Shirley Bloom, area manager, and Muriel Hammer, feature columnist, also earned membership to Quill and Scroll.

Even the most industrious Muskies took time out for fun.

George Parks and Marian Kautz were well-known students who dated frequently for school parties

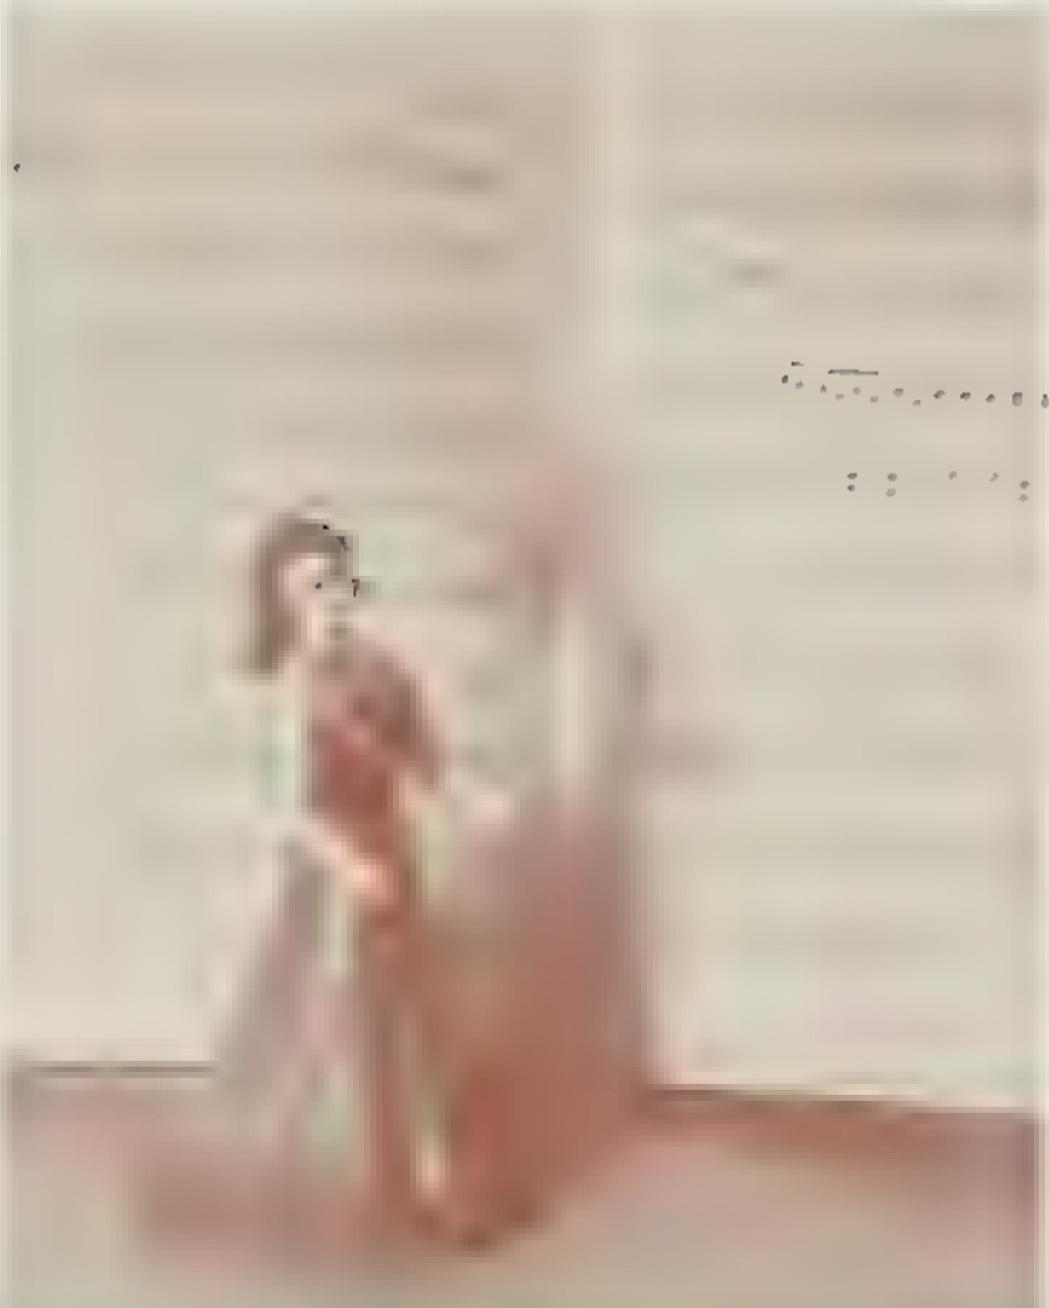

Scholars Bowl, Date, Read, Play Informally

The bowling alley was one of the most popular places for students after school. TOP: Lu Steinmetz was a regular bowler in the Highschool Girls' League on Thursday afternoons. Deliberating over the heck questions in the social room was a common occurrence with Pete Koslow. CENTER: Esther Schultz and Babe Hoffman were using the lie-detector to find which of them was prevaricating. BOTTOM: Football captain Kenny Duncan was thumbing through the pages of a "Life" magazine as the camera artist caught him off guard. Juan Wecksung and Harry Hindahl typified the many students who took walks about the school during the noon hour.

OUR SCHOOL

These Are the Artists

● By rights these speakers, musicians, and dramatists of our school should be temperamental. They seemed to be able to practise for long hours, endure criticism, and to assist in filling out a program at the last minute without having any serious nervous fits of artistic temperament. Maybe they have learned something within the walls of M. H. S. that a lot of people in the professional world either never knew or have forgotten. Through the careful guidance of the directors, Muskies in these activities have learned much of sportsmanship, cooperation, and self-confidence. Another important lesson this type of person learned was the importance of dependability.

Musical, dramatic, and forensic activities do more to develop individual personality and ease before an audience than any other activity in our school.

MUSICIANS, SPEAKERS

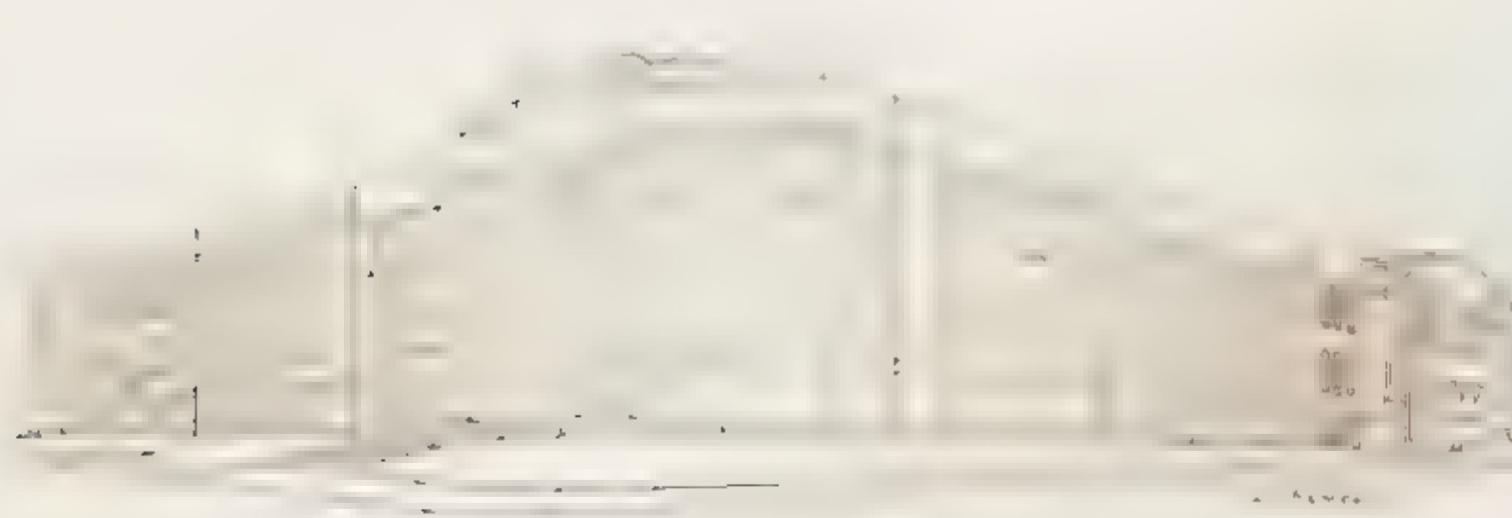

Community Cooperates To Raise Funds for New Band Uniforms

● A band equal to the musical organizations of other schools has long been the dream of the people of our town—high-school students, the faculty and the school board, civic-minded individuals and business and professional men, as well as various county and city organizations.

The city taxpayers provided a beautiful, modern new building with adequate facilities for a band; the school board hired an efficient, talented director, and bought a number of the larger, more expensive instruments; Musky students, anxious for places in the band, began long hours of practice. Soon, however, it became clear to all that the acquiring of uniforms for the band was an urgent need.

Community leaders were sympathetic with the project put before them, and immediately began carrying plans into effect for the raising of funds. Under the direction of Harold Freese the band has been making splendid progress and the realized funds stimulated the desire to advance even more.

There is a definite feeling of satisfaction that the community groups are behind the school in its various undertakings. No school is complete without school spirit, and certainly no town is complete without its civic pride. This project should convince the minority of individuals who criticize that the entire community can cooperate in anything it undertakes.

SPEECH ARTS

Artists Win Points for Membership

• The roll call of this club consisted of the participants in declam, debate, and dramatics who had earned enough points to enter. The second Thursday of every month found this group assembled for their meeting. At those gatherings which were generally held in our social room, they had the ordinary business meeting and some type of a program. The programs sometimes were reports on the trips that some members had made out-of-town either to a debate or declam tournament, or with a play cast.

One of the old and famous customs of this group is to sponsor exchange plays with Iowa City. Each year Iowa City brings a one-act play to our school for presentation in assembly form and then Miss. the returns the favor. The evening of the play the dramatics department gives the visiting cast a banquet and an evening of entertainment. Late last fall Miss June Long, a member of I.U. was present at "The Lady Who Ate an Oyster" before an Iowa City audience. Last March Iowa City repaid their obligation by giving M.H.S. a presentation of Twelfth Night's "The Merry Travels."

Speech Arts officers for the two semesters were Jack Toussaint and Lucille Steinmetz, presidents; Jack Goetz and Dee Goss, vice presidents; Betty Eppel and Bob Steltz, secretaries; Walter Berg and Leo Baker, treasurers, and Richard Holland and Artie Schmidt, recording secretaries.

BAND

Muskies Plan Colorful Uniforms

• This year our school rose to higher levels of achievement through having the pleasure and opportunity of a band for the first time in the history of M. H. S. The first weeks of school, student musicians rehearsed continually until at the close of the football season when they were sufficiently schooled to play at the final game.

Our band supplied entertainment at practically all the basketball games. Their versatile director, Harold Freese, rehearsed the band in all types of music: overtures, chorals, marches, and swing. The week preceding spring vacation Mr. Freese began instructing them in marching formations.

As well as presenting a spring concert the band participated in the county festival on March 3. The five schools represented, Wilton, West Liberty, Nichols, Atalissa, and Muscatine, presented a mass concert in the evening.

We're going to be especially proud of our band next fall when they get all decked out in their new uniforms. They're going to have red coats with gold citation cords, black trousers with red and gold stripes, black Sam Browne belts, black ties, West Point Shako hats of the same color with an eight-inch black ostrich plume, white gloves, and black shoes.

The drum majors, headed by Bob Welsh, are scheduled to wear cream uniforms trimmed in gold braid with red satin tails and red stripes on the trousers. To complete their outfit they will have white fur bushies, red plumes, and white gloves. The baton twirlers will wear black skirts, white blouses, and white shoes. The marching unit's color guard will consist of two rifle bearers and three flag bearers.

Muskies let off steam in a worthwhile channel when they blew trombones and baritones in the band

Harold Freese

• Our band director, Harold Freese, is responsible for the realization of the dreams of Muscatine people. An enthusiastic leader, Mr. Freese efficiently and thoroughly transformed a group of students into skilled musicians.

People like Freese and Freese likes people. Students who had never taken part in any outside activity learned the valuable experience that can be gained through participation in an extracurricular interest.

CHORUS

Max Risinger Reorganizes Vocalists

- Seventy-seven voices filled plates and piano keys during the term to make our chorus of M. H. S. which Max Risinger, our new music director from Jessup, Iowa, who replaced C. V. Thomas, organized the second semester. Not every voice in the group was exceptional but those that were outstanding formed the smaller vocal groups for special competition.

The soloists—Margaret Jean Roberts, soprano; Evelyn Gundrum, mezzo-soprano; Betty Noret, alto; Robert Fischer, tenor; Jack Butcher, bass; and Marion Pantel, pianist—entered sub-state competition along with the small groups of the madrigal, mixed quartet, and girls' trio.

The madrigal group consisted of Robert Nyenhuis, Richard Boldt, Margaret Jean Roberts, Shirley Legg, Evelyn Graham, Gloria Gremmel, Betty Nantz, Betty Connor, Jack Butcher, and Robert Veltz. The trio which comprised the quartet were Dorothy Korneman, Betty Connor, Richard Boldt, and Jack Butcher. The girls' trio was made up of Margaret Jean Roberts, Gloria Gremmel, and Betty Connor.

By virtue of winning first place in their respective groups at the national contest you, the girls' next contestants, Dorothy Klemm, Shirley Eiger, Gloria Gremmel, Evelyn Gundrum, Betty Noret, and Betty Connor, may, just like Alice Sternmetz, be given the privilege of going directly to the national contest again without first competing in state contests.

DRAMATICS

Too Bad Actors Aren't Paid by Hour

- Musky dramatists would be millionaires if highschool drama came under the Wage and Hour Law, but knowing that it doesn't, well—the appreciation of the audiences is their remittance for hours and hours of work

The important plays of the year were the all-school play, "Seven Sisters"; the contest play, "You're Fired"; and the senior class play, "The Whole Town's Talking."

DEBATE

Debate Blamed for Soliloquy

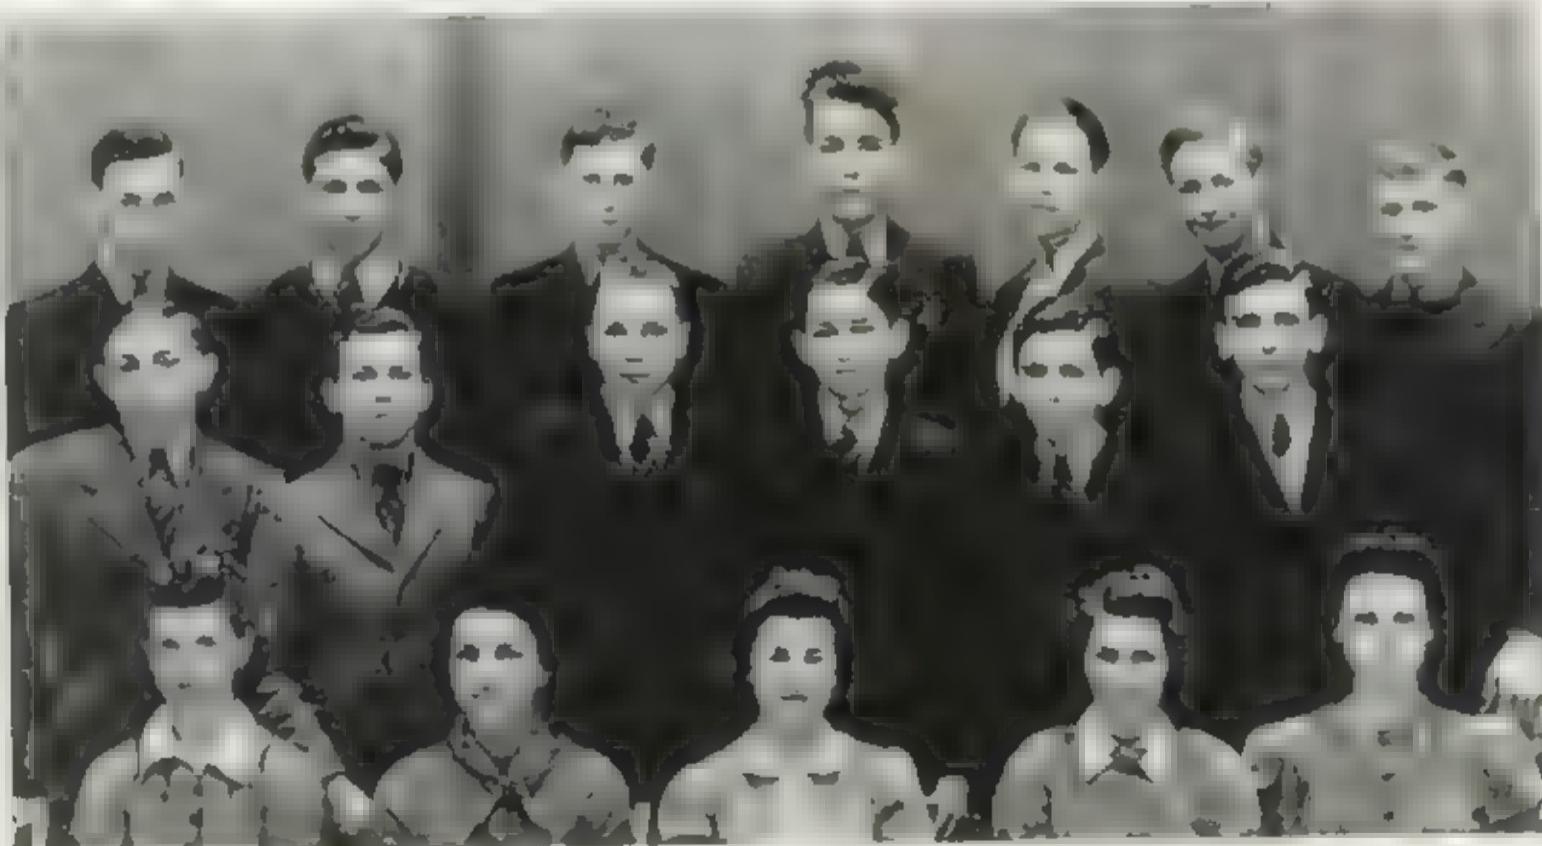

• Many of the students will remember this group's most outstanding personality because of the way he talked to himself. Albie Goss attributed (or blamed) this habit to his four years of debate work. It seems that a good debater asks and answers for himself a lot of questions while no one else even has the floor.

But whether debate develops this soliloquy or not is immaterial — the main thing is that it is one of the most active groups in our extracurricular program. The debate calendar is crammed this past year from the beginning to the end with both decisional and non-decisional tournaments here in Muscatine and in neighboring cities. By the first of March the spa had participated in ninety-five debates.

In November two negative teams and two affirmative teams went to work against the Mt. Pleasant teams in a series of non-decisional debates. Practically the entire group participated in the two dual contests with Iowa City, M.H.S. winning, last night February 1, and the teams preparing for the biggest event of the year — the tournament at Augustana. Our representatives came through with eight victories, four losses. Following the Augustana contest were the debates at the Coe Tournament in Cedar Rapids where Muscatine won four, lost two.

This year the first affirmative team was Leo Baker and Shirlee Levin; the first negative was the brothers, Albert and Dale Goss.

DECLAM

Sophomores Star in Class Contest

• Oratorical, dramatic, and humorous speakers — M. H. S. had them all, and the sophomore class did the best of all three. The sophomores proved this when they walked away with most of the most important declam contests at the very first class competition. Jean Wilkens, Shirlee Levin, and Harriet Glatstein, who won the decision when they were freshmen, proved they knew how it was to be done, and so the sophomore class had the Kiwanis trophy for another year.

Of the six Musky lasses who entered the Annual Girls' Invitational Contest at Davenport, Alice Sommers was the outstanding one representing Muscatine in the dramatic section—her selection, "Beyond the Last Mile," could be second place top day in and without question, was highest rating in the contest.

The Boys' Declamatory Contest had Richard Koll, Ralph Trimble, and Don McCaffrey as Muscatine representatives. Richard entered the oratorical division; Ralph, the dramatic; and Don, the humorous.

Musky declaimers also participated in the Boys' Iowa Nine in December, the Girls' Iowa Nine in January, the Preliminary Round of the State Declamatory Association Contest, and the N. F. L. District Tournament at Fairfield.

Muskies devote sixth periods and after schooltime to music and forensic work.

Arles Beeding, Jack Tous-saint, and Betty Eppel rehearsed a scene from the all-school play, "Sev-en Sisters."

Musicians, Actors, Speakers in Action

TOP: Bob Liebbe and Gloria Gremmel enjoyed donning old-fashioned clothes for a student assembly in the auditorium . . . Margaret Jean Roberts and Dallas Zimmerman personified Abraham Lincoln and his wife. CENTER: It was a drum serenade for Josephine Hazen, Don Jacobs, Marilyn Havercamp, and Barbara Weis . . . Betty Noret, Margaret Shaffnit, Virginia Weber, and Barbara Timm held a high note at chorus practise. BOTTOM: Their teacher, Max Ringer, maintained order in the most informal of positions . . . Making a spot light occupied the attentions of Charles Drake and LeRoy Coon.

These Are the Athletes

● Our athletes lead the student body in sportsmanship, leadership, and school spirit. Although Musky athletes come in all sizes and shapes—husky, lanky, short, muscular, large-framed, and squatly—in many respects they are alike. The chief similarity is that they all learn to play the game, and play it fairly.

Last year Muscatine has chalked up a very creditable record in every sport, except in the important matter of games won. In the long run, though, everybody agrees that building individual character is of more lasting importance than winning a state championship. The coaches who sit on the bench are responsible for the sportsmanship, the officials for the fair treatment of the boy who enters the athletic contest.

This year the Bill Roach trophy was engraved with the name of Ross McGlothlen, a Musky athlete outstanding in sportsmanship, leadership, school spirit, and perseverance.

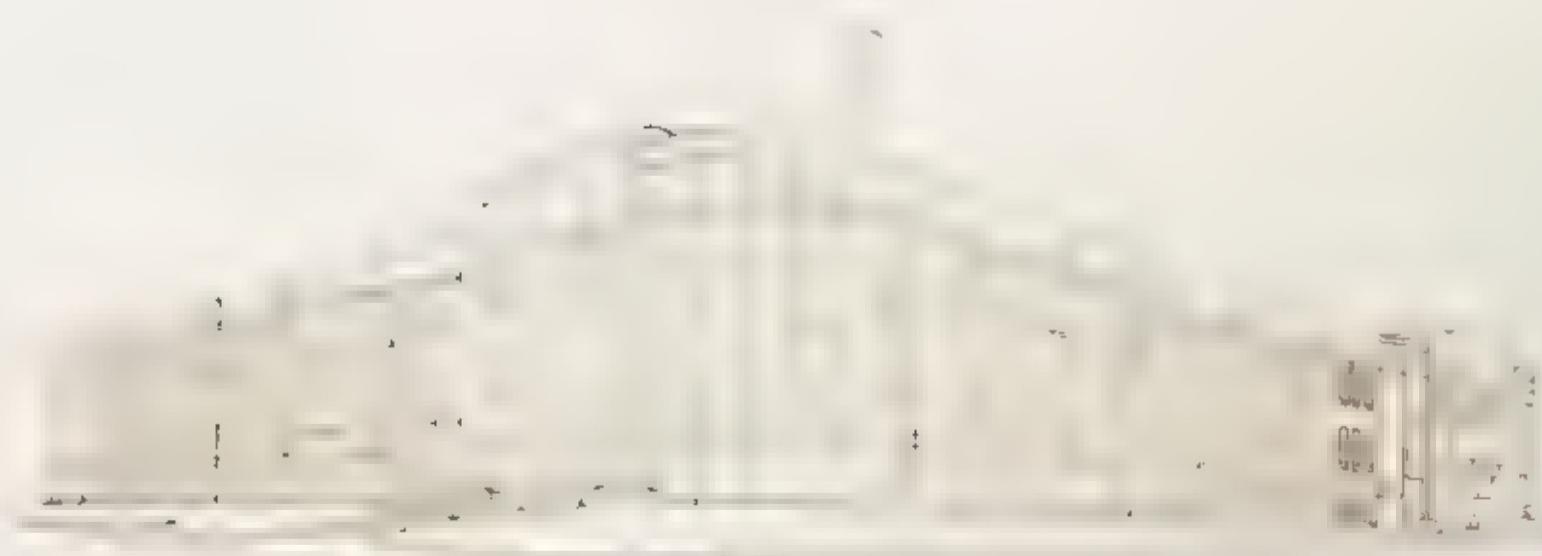

ATHLETES

Handicapped Gridmen Retain High Morale, Sportsmanship

● Before going any further let's pause to consider the gridiron situation at our school. Skip Weber, our football coach, teaches a sound brand of football with just enough punch to keep it in the modern category, and still make it entertaining to both the trained and untrained eye. In recent years, however, injuries have been abundant in the Muscatine High School football camp while other schools are sailing along with a minimum of casualties.

Why does Muscatine have all these injuries? Bud Fairall, a local columnist, sums it up well when he tells his readers that bad holes on the football field account for the injured ankles that laid many of Coach Weber's boys low last season. Have you ever fallen, while running at top speed, on a pavement? If so, you know just how Muskies felt when tackled on the pavement-like surface of our football field last fall. The law of averages was sure to catch up with Muskies who took these falls every afternoon of the week with the exception of Sunday.

In order to have a well-rounded athletic program at M. H. S. we should have a gridiron well matted with a good stand of grass. An inadequate field, nevertheless, has had no effect on the training, sportsmanship, and attitude of our boys.

Bob Kinnan Resigns Position Here

One of the regretted highlights of the '40 and '41 year at M. H. S. was the departure of our beloved basketball coach, Bob Kinnan. Kinnan departed for the Southlands to take over his new position at Washington University in St. Louis, Missouri. He was well replaced by his former assistant, Coach L. A. Schnack. As head basketball coach at M. H. S., Schnack was a vital factor in the success of the basketball team of the '44-'45 season. It is safe to say that the selection of Bob Kinnan to take over the basketball program will indicate that the future success of Purple and Gold teams is assured. As well as being a supervisor in other extracurricular activities, Coach Schnack served as head coach in basketball and baseball.

The problem of finding a capable coach to fill the vacancy created by the retirement of Schnack will be one of the greatest. The selection of Bob Hanson was indeed an asset to the coaching staff of M. H. S. Bob served in the capacity of assistant coach to L. A. in basketball and baseball.

Coach Skip Weber completed his fifth year as head in football and track at Muscatine High in great form. By taking the present situation into account he has decided to leave. Skip's career is replete in the amazess and a never-say-die spirit.

Seniors Typify Musky Sportsmen

• The seniors that are pictured in the above photos signify three branches of the athletic program at Muscatine High School. They are just a few of the athletic heroes that paraded the gridiron, hard-court, and the diamond throughout the year for the sportsmanship and entertainment that was secured by their efforts of participation.

Each of the above seniors served as examples to their teammates. Ken Darrow was a hard-hitting fullback who served well as a precentor. People might say he was a "Cossack" but it took that kind of Weber men through the '40 season they did an amazing job of upholding the true Musky spirit that is so well known throughout the state.

Vernon Hoffman, through his endeavors at his regular guard position, helped the old Musky pride continue to live. Not necessarily with a great performance, but more every time, between the shoulder blades, he was as unpredictable as lightning. How well we remember his extensive ability in those fast passes from the punt side. In the second game of the year, Vernon earned a position on the second Little Six all conference mythical team.

Don Sprouse was a triple-sport athlete for M. H. S., participating in the three major sports—football, basketball, and baseball. Don was the other half of the great guard combination for the hard-courters and played an outstanding game at his guard position on the football team. As captain of the baseball team of '41, Don performed from his position as catcher.

Above all, emphasis is placed on the outstanding sportsmanship displayed by the teams of Muscatine High throughout the year in all sports. Glory may not be showered on many stars, but the sportsmanlike attitude of competition with the other schools that can be participated in is always a factor to show sportsmanship and cooperation.

FOOTBALL

Lady Bad Luck Enters Musky Camp

• Several names of the crewmen returned from last year's squad in reported to Coach Weber at the beginning of the football season. Everything was as normal as day and night until old Lady Bad Luck ventured into the Musky camp to make it her haven for the rest of the season.

Right from the first pre-conference game with St. Ambrose, injuries predominated on the Musky squad. Injuries are to be expected on any football squad, but the Purple and Gold representatives had enough to last for several seasons to come.

Cliff Bleadorn, a hard-charging fullback, was one casualty that set the Muskies back on their heels. It was late in the season before Cliff could even come near to regaining his ability.

Hesky Ross McGlothlen, a defensive stalwart at a tackle position, was a mainstay for the Webersmen. Ross completed his second year as a regular tackle for M. H. S. Liked by all and a quiet leader, he was always in there hustling. Ross received the Bel Ray McDonald Trophy, the highest honor that a gridder of M. H. S. can attain.

Every season has at least one highlight, and the one this year was the game at Jefferson Field against the Wilson High of Cedar Rapids. By this time of the season, the Musky injuries were patched up to the extent that the Webersmen bowled over the Wilsonians to the tune of a 70 score.

Players Block, Tackle

● As well as showing practise sessions, the column of photos to the right show the Muskies in action against opponents. TOP: Musky blockers gave way for a punter in a night game against an opponent in the first picture . . . At one of the all important practises the Weberman ran through plays at Jefferson Field . . . The third picture from the top was taken as Phil Willis was tackled on the goal line during that hectic game with Wilson High of Cedar Rapids. This touch down and the attempt for the extra point was margin enough to give the Purple and Gold gridders a victory in the last game of the season BOTTOM: A practise drill at Jefferson Field as seen from the library window. These pictures were made possible by the alertness of the Auroran photographer. The '40 season was packed with thrills and packed with action to the finish.

That look of determination and desire to display the highest form of sportsmanship is written on the faces of the above M. H. S. gridders. Although hampered by many injuries the Muskies of '40 will be remembered by their timeliness and true to-heart fighting spirit. Many underclassmen developed throughout the year to the extent that a successful team is anticipated for next year.

Musky gridmen began practising for the 1940 season even before the first days of school.

Yearlings Win Glory

• The Purple and Gold yearlings of '40 attained glory and honor under the able supervision of L. A. Schnack. One of the best B squads in several seasons, they finished the campaign with remarkable percentage.

By turning back four of the seven strong opponents they met, the yearlings developed fundamentally to the extent that several of the stars expected to fill the shoes of the veterans created by graduating seniors. Hopewell, Havemann, and Watters were mainstays in the line and effective defensively. In the back field Thompson, Naber, Bently, and Kossives are expected to produce more fine performances.

Many games were won by the forward pass combination of Naber and Thompson. Thompson was especially effective in open-field running. Since the squad was composed almost entirely of freshmen and sophomores a great future is anticipated for the football teams of M. H. S.

The B squadders scrambled with such opponents as Columbus Junction, Mt. Pleasant, Wapello, Tipton, Davenport, and Iowa City. This year's experience was the initial of some great careers.

Many of the participants were green as to the real stuff that composes a football player and the sacrifices and cooperation that is expected from each. Since the team as a whole was a success, a great deal of credit should be given to L. A. Schnack for his endeavors to teach the fundamentals.

Our Quintet Has Successful Season

• Coach Lefty Schnack began his career as head basketball coach for M. H. S. this year and led his understudies to a successful season. Several letter men and a gallery of prospects tutored the team at the start of the season, but the one problem of Coach Schnack was to find sufficient men to cope with the competition that was to be met.

The return of the great guard combination of Hoffman and Sprouse was indeed an asset to the success of the '40-'41 season. George Parks was another veteran who upheld the laurels throughout the season by furnishing the offensive punch.

One of the best finds of the season was the flashy performer and high scorer, Walt Kochneff. Walt did a wonderful job for the Muskies this year and finished second in the individual scoring race of the conference. He has two full years of competition remaining.

The team of the '40-'41 season was often referred to as the team that was "one for all and all for one." This characteristic was probably the basic reason for such a successful season. The Muskies ended up in a respectable third place in the final standings of the Little Six.

B Squad Wins County Championship

• As basketball began at M.H.S. for the first year, the B's had to go in the starting line-up by practice to an impressive team. The Masky B team won the county tournament at Newell, way out in front of Conesville and Nichols' quarters. In the first round, they beat Parkersburg representatives, drew a victory over the local school, and downed their opponents by the scores of 38-23 and 26-25. Pete Koslow made the winning point against the Nichols High quintet to clinch the championship.

The squad was composed entirely of freshmen and sophomores. Many of the stars of this year will be forming for the Varsity team. Among those likely to advance are Pete Koslow, Ken Lester, Buck Scott, and Dan Naber.

The underclassmen met the strongest opposition available throughout the season playing such teams as Law City, Duxbury, Letts, Bell, Grandview, Conesville, and Nichols as well as opposing the Little Six freshman and sophomore teams.

The future success of the varsity squad indirectly depends on the up-and-coming stars of the B squad. Under the guidance of Coach H. Smith, the lines developed and improved each season and many of the B stars are expected to do great things for the varsity in the next two seasons.

BASKETBALL

Thrills Fill Season

Many thrilling performances were displayed by the hurters of M. H. S. during the past season. Action as seen through the lens of the Aurora camera will remind fans of the thrills witnessed during the '40-'41 campaign. TOP At the fund-raising Merchants' Festival, the game between the parochial schools of Muscatine and M. H. S. supplied entertainment for thousands of ardent fans. Always hustling for the ball, scoring at every opportune moment, and alertness on defense are a few of the reasons why Kochneff, Parks, and Hoffman received a place on the all-conference mythical teams. The endeavors of these players are confirmed by the photos to the right. Above all else, the air of sportsmanship was the predominate characteristic of the team regardless if they lost or won, or if they were headliners or bench-warmers. This year the boys didn't make it to the state finals but they had the stuff to thrill our fans time and again.

A capacity crowd thronged the new fieldhouse for the highlight of the season when the Mason City Mohawks, the 1940 state champs, bowed to the Muskies by a score of 38-34. The players pictured above are typical of the thousands of fans after this hectic game.

Underclassmen Shine for Weber

- With mostly underclassmen reporting for practice, Coach Weber and Captain Carl Langeke's Muskies started the season in the Purple Gold representation of six upper-classmen Daven from the Big Six schools and entered in the Drake Relays.

A veteran and positive point getter was Ross McGlothlen. Ross performed in a field events program, the shot put twice, and also as a member of the 440-meter relay team. The other underclassmen were H. well and Ken Rummers. All were in this, except for a few others.

A gallery of underclassmen and future stars composed of Weiershauser, Thompson, Carlisle, Hankins, and Sadel were entered in the state indoor meet at Iowa City in April. Don Langeke, captain of McNeal, Griesenbrock, and Bon. As the year now finds them in the driveway, Muskies are hopefules for the '42 campaign.

Don Schmidt performed with the shot and discus and promises to develop into a real shiner. In the first state indoor games in Sioux City, W. Koenig was the sky-walker for Muskies in the '41. He was second in vaulting and third in pole vaulting in many of the meets and has

Seven Veterans Lead Musky Players

• L. A. Schnack became the head coach of baseball in 1941 due to the departure of former Coach Kinnin. Seven veterans returned along with a squad of rookies to give Muscatine a look forward to a bumper year of victories.

Captain-elect for the '41 season was the star catcher, Don Sprouse. Don is exceptionally efficient in his position and his batting skill and opportunities made him the All-American this past season. Bill Hoffman, the player skilled enough at the plate to lead the team in hitting, Letty's Block often called because of obvious reasons, established a brilliant third world record for M. H. S. Another veteran member was Harry Hindahl. Harry was regular throughout the season, but was particularly popular for his skill with M. H. S. pitchers. He also was effective at the plate, and was the number four hitter.

Others who returned were Arny Atkins, Art Lucas, Earl Pulliam, and Eddie Bartelt. These veterans kept the outfit in position at All-American regular turn on the rubber. Don Theobald and Schuyler Proffitt were welcomed into camp as the star rookies this year and both held regular duties as infielder and pitcher respectively.

Muskies played regular games against Davenport, Buffalo, Wapello, Grandview, Letts, and Wilton.

SPRING SPORT CANDIDS

Warm Weather Calls Muskies Outside

● As doors were swung open and trees began to bud, the bowling balls, gym suits, and basketball shoes were laid aside to make way for the golf clubs, track shoes, and baseball equipment. The Auroran photographer was on the spot to catch the spring loving Muskies at play in their various fields of endeavor.

On the Jefferson track Bob Barr was seen adjusting the hurdles just before his trip over the timbers . . . During spring football Skip Weber was often seen giving the fundamental tactics to his hopefules for the coming season . . . The new prospect Don Theobald was snagging a hot liner on the diamond as the Purple and Gold worked out in preparation for the coming campaign . . . BOTTOM: Schuyler Proffitt, the diminutive speed-ball expert, burns on down the middle in an effort to limber up his pitching arm . Jimmie Burke barely nosed out Paul King in one of the warm-up sprints during track this spring . . . Husky Harry Hindahl, the hard hitting pitcher of M. H. S., posed for the picture at a practise session.

These athletes of M. H. S. all contributed in their particular fields to make the year of athletics at Muscatine High an outstanding one.

GIRLS' ATHLETICS

Kegging soon presented no problem for the Mesky, Bowlers, Jeanne Ruthenbeck, Lucy Ladd, and Bonnie Gabriel.

These Are the Miscellaneous Types

- This section is comprised of the farmers, journalists, chemists, home economists, linguists, Hi-Tri girls, Hi-Y boys, and commercial students. As well as learning from books, they learned by actual doing.

These miscellaneous interests provide an outlet for the energies of Muskies who are interested in lines of work which may some day help them find a job. Perhaps some day the news editor will write stories for a Chicago paper and maybe one of our school's chemists will perfect the rocket ship.

In any event they will have learned to assume the tasks of leadership, and to develop initiative, and aggressiveness as well as to develop certain skills.

This type of Musky enjoyed chasing ads for the Annual, judging livestock, and baking cakes.

MISCELLANEOUS TYPES

Muskies Write Stories, Usher Crowds, Plant Seeds

- The groups in this section should really go into different divisions since each organization performs a different service for our school and each group derives a different benefit from taking part in the particular activity.

For example, the Ushers' Club assists in handling the crowds in our auditorium, whether or not the program is sponsored by the school. Performing this service for Muscatine people develops poise and self-confidence in the students and causes them to appear before a large gathering with a minimum of self-consciousness.

During the course of time it takes to publish weekly Auroras and the yearbook, the journalists of our school learn initiative, aggressiveness, and dependability. These Fourth Estateers are on a par with the F-staters (Future Farmers) when it comes to learning skills which will someday help them in their chosen vocations.

Judging from the example Hi-Y and Hi-Tri set for the rest of the student body, the members of these clubs achieved more than fun and frolic at their gatherings. Junior Ad and Chemistry Club taught Muskies more about their special interests in the fields of commerce and science.

USHERS' CLUB

White Coats Symbolize Quiet Service

Now here's an organization that really proved a benefit to the whole community. It didn't make a bit of difference whether it was a simple task of taking tickets at a second period assembly or of showing the patrons of an evening lecture to their seats, the Ushers' Club was on the job.

The students who joined this group performed so many public services that in the opinion of the audiences of the community affairs of Muscatine their white coats were a trade-mark of quiet, courteous service.

The group ushered at the all-school play, "Seven Sisters"; two one-act plays, "Boy Meets Family" and "You're Fired"; and the junior college play. They helped at school carnivals and events as the basketball games and the graduation services. They served at both the afternoon assemblies and evening performances of the stage programs, at "Hits of Broadway," and at the concert given by Rubinoff.

Belonging to the Ushers' Club offered the individual student a splendid opportunity for developing poise. It made him able to appear before a crowd without becoming self-conscious.

AURORAN STAFFS

Muskies Learn Journalistic Aims

- These are the members of the M. H. S. Fourth Estate. These Muskies, headed by Juanita Wecksung, yearbook editor; and Patricia Johnson and Marian Kautz, newspaper managing editors, learned to create news stories and annual copy by publishing the weekly and Annual Aurorans. In varying degrees the publication staff also learned the true aims of journalism: truth, loyalty, friendship, leadership, enlightenment, opportunity, and initiative.

The Auroran Cubs were the "darlings" of Room 122. Full-fledged staff members were quick to observe and encourage the talents of these novice journalists as they learned the tricks of the trade.

Staff Completes Semester Without Chief

● By far the outstanding accomplishment of the Auroran staff this year was completing the 1941 Annual Auroran and publishing the weekly newspaper the second semester without the expert aid of Miss Genevieve McCandless, the faculty adviser. Lady has endeared herself to the students in our school through her true interest in developing the character and the journalistic ability of the Muskies "exposed" to her. In order to take on the extra work and worry of publications she has sacrificed her health as well as her personal pleasures. Staff alumni frequently give Lady credit for helping them to discover their potential powers and giving them the necessary encouragement.

Owing to Lady's thorough training, the staff was set to trying on when he was forced to leave school in the fall winter. The staff members who held the major positions then were Juan Weckung, general manager; Jean Miller, assistant general manager; Patricia Johnson and Marian Kautz, managing editors; Mary Ann Hakes, assistant managing editor; Juanita Embree and Esther Schultz, copy editors; Barbara Clegg, Vernon Leon hard, make-up editors; Betty Kern, news editor; Genevieve Crow, editorial editor; Maxine Romig, feature editor; Tex Kelt, sports editor; Stanley Howe, business manager; Clara Louise Bloom, advertising manager; Shirley Bloom, circulation manager; and Waunita Farrier, top flight typist.

Farmers Are Active

● Learning to become good farmers is the project of Musky boys who enroll in the Smith Hughes course of our school. In order to accomplish this aim Lindley B. Hoopes, agriculture instructor, teaches his classes modern methods of raising crops and caring for livestock.

Agriculturists Judge Livestock

- Our local F. F. A. chapter held the largest ag fair in the state for the first time. During the summer months the Agriculture department by popular livestock and crop projects for exhibits at the fair.

Chief social events were the roller skating party, the dinner meeting, and the parent-son banquet. Officers for the year were James A. Van Camp, Donald Stange, presidents; Donald Stange, Joe Meeker, vice presidents, George Shield, Thomas Watson, secretaries, Joe Meeker, Harry Brudtkuhl, treasurers; Thomas Watson, Gene M. HI-TRI

Club Sponsors Conference, Fun-Nites

- Being hostesses for the Five River Cities' Conference, September 21 and 22, was a fitting way for our Hi-Tri club to begin such a full year of splendid work. Hi-Tri sponsored Fun-Nites on Friday nights as well as an evening party and a spring picnic. At Christmas time the club entertained poor kiddies at a holiday party. Officers for the two semesters were Laura Mae Feldman and Waunita Farrier, presidents; Betty Kern and Jeanne Ruthenberg, vice-presidents; Lucille Steinmetz and Elaine Handley, secretaries; Ethelyn Johnston and Dorothy Spratt, treasurers.

Freshman Girls Discuss Problems

• Freshman girls love to have a chance to get together with other girls their own age and to talk over the problems they have. They like to have a good time at parties and picnics. The Amicæ Club was organized for just these purposes. After the recognition of fifty-one girls at services, November 11, the club began its regular work for the year. For the December meeting, Amicæ had a Christmas party for youngsters. Each girl presented her little kiddie-guest with a pair of mittens as a Christmas gift. The programs in January consisted of group discussion; on January 2, the topic of the discussion was girls' hobbies.

Valentine's Day the girls had a good time at the Valentine Fling that they sponsored with the Organized Missions Association. At the regular February meeting the girls discussed the best ways to prepare

The first meeting in April covered a program on "A Girl's World." The meeting of April 24 commemorated the sixtieth anniversary of Girl Reserves. May 12 was a spring party; May 26, a quiz on the duties of a hostess. Early in June the club sponsored a picnic for the junior high girls who will enter high school in September.

Officers of the Amicæ Club were Betty Gallaher, president; Marion Daniels, vice-president; Gerie Keating, secretary; and Shirlee Jamison, treasurer. Misses Martha Jean Meeker and Lorraine Raub sponsored the club.

JUNIOR AD

Members Present Speeches, Papers

• These are the future commercial leaders of Muscatine. A few years from now these members of Junior Ad Club will bring out the shining lawn signs and make use of their knowledge of salesmanship and business learned from the bi monthly meetings of this business organization.

E. J. Howe, advisor, used his influence with local businessmen in order to secure the best speakers. Club members also took their turn at taking part in the program where they prepared speeches and papers discussing the findings of individual projects.

This isn't a social club but an organization composed of students of better than average intelligence who have taken at least one commercial subject and have been elected to membership by virtue of their interest in learning more about the business world. They came to know the local businessmen better when the Senior Ad Club joined the Junior Ad group at two luncheons, exchanging the roles of host and guest. The alumni of Junior Ad received invitations to the club's annual alumni reception, a newly-begun tradition of our school.

CHEMISTRY CLUB

Musky Chemists Cloud Atmosphere

• For some time now people have been making predictions about how science is going to save us time in eating our meals. One of these days we won't have to waste several hours a day chewing thick steaks and creamy mashed potatoes and brown gravy. They claim that chemists will develop a little pill that will provide us with all the energy we need—if they ever get around to it.

Perhaps that was the reason that the people in our school were usually tolerant with Musky chemists when they clouded the atmosphere with some unsavory concoction like hydrogen sulphide. Experiments like the thermite bomb test performed by Prof. Walt Satterthwaite, were a common occurrence at Chemistry Club meetings. The faculty advisor made an interesting test for ions and their conductivity and also performed an electrolysis experiment for the club members. At one meeting John Kopf and Edward Paulsen conducted a test of animal and vegetable fibers in which the bases dissolve vegetable and the acids dissolve animal fibers.

The members of this organization, headed by Betty Kern, president; Esther Schultz, vice-president; and Mony Schmidt, secretary-treasurer; established the reputation of always having a good time at their meetings for they livened up the sixth period conclaves with clever puns. Outstanding social events were a party in December and a picnic in May.

CURIA REGIA

Club Studies Wonders of World

• The majority of people will never get to see the Seven Wonders of the World, but what to do about it? A group of students in our school who were interested in these famous works of art decided that the least they could do was to learn about them. So Curia Regia spent two of its meetings studying the facts about them—first, the pyramids of Egypt, the walls and hanging gardens of Babylon, the Parthenon of Athens, and the temple of Diana at Ephesus. Next there were speeches on the other three which were the statue of Jupiter by Phidias, the mausoleum at Halicarnassus, and the Colossus of Rhodes.

During the year the club studied Roman life—social positions, marriage, style of dress, calendar, and the architecture. In December the group made their meeting appropriate for the season by having a program on the Roman Saturnalia. After a report on the ancient Roman calendar, they sang the two most famous Latin carols, "Adeste Fideles" and "Adoramus Te."

The officers for the two semesters were Leo Baker and Patricia Mahurin, presidents; Marion Pantel and Robert Newton, vice-presidents; Evelyn Gundrum and Sylvia Brookhart, secretaries; and George Gallaher and Bill Block, treasurers.

SECO

Eighty-Five Maidens Answer Roll Call

• Of all the clubs in our school, Seco has grown the most rapidly. Last year the club was considered large when it had a membership of forty girls; this year it had a still larger membership. The 1941 Seco organization had about eighty-five Musky maidens answering its roll call. What's the cause for this sudden interest in homemaking? Well, frankly, we don't know.

The biggest share of Seco meetings were built around the idea of helping the girls with some of their problems which bother them now and will trouble them later. Beauty care is something that all girls are interested in, so Miss Clara Maxson, from the Maxson Beauty Salon, gave a talk on beauty treatments. Max Risinger, the music instructor, discussed "Music in the Home" at one of the meetings. Then there was the time that they had the demonstration on manners when one "eats out." Along the line of fun there was the Christmas party, the barn dance, and the picnic for senior Seco girls.

The officers for the two semesters were Esther Schultz and Delores Drahus, presidents; Ann Miller, Vice President; Jean Miller, Vice Presidents; Anita Schmidt and Darlene Soll, secretaries; and Rozetta Royster and Frances Foster, treasurers.

Y's Boys Lead Wednesday Cafeteria Line

• For years meatballs have been synonymous with Hi-Y so this time we won't even mention them. Every Wednesday the Y boys barge in the cafeteria and demand first places in the waiting line—no what's more they get them. For this reason they have time to parade to the social room, eat, and hold their weekly meeting.

What do they do after they get down there? Nobody seems to know exactly. It seems as though they do a little bit of everything. They have a business meeting—the secretary calls the roll and reads the minutes of the last meeting, then comes the treasurer's report, and all that goes with an ordinary business meeting.

During the first semester the club took an educational trip to Rock Island, which was the highlight of last fall's meetings. On Lincoln's birthday, the Reverend Henry C. Schneider spoke on the life of Abraham Lincoln. In March Charles Meerdink led an interesting discussion on men's styles. Two meetings were devoted to talks on vocation, one having been led by Ben Galaber and the other by A. A. Janssen. This year Hi-Y joined Hi-Tri and two other service clubs in planning and executing devotional services for Holy Week.

The officers for the two semesters were Richard Kidd and George Parks, presidents; Jack Toussaint and Robert Fischer, vice presidents; Oliver Bentz and Stanley Howe, secretaries; Douglas Randleman and Robert Fruehner, treasurers; and Robert Pearson and Edward Lorber, sergeants-at-arms.

OUR SCHOOL

These Are the Faculty and Class Groups

- All the many types of people in our school organized into faculty and class groups. No matter what his interests in school might be, the student receives the title of freshman, sophomore, junior, or senior according to the number of years he has passed successfully in M. H. S. Our teachers serve as administrators of the enrollment of our school and consequently keep abreast of modern trends in education. The idea that the student who makes friends with his teacher is an "apple-polisher" has changed with the discovery that collaboration between the teacher and the learner spells success in the higher development of the student.

Our faculty makes allowances for the personal ideas and idiosyncrasies of our students, so that our graduates are true individuals instead of merely forms labeled "Senior".

at our graduates are true individuals instead of merely forms labeled "Senior".

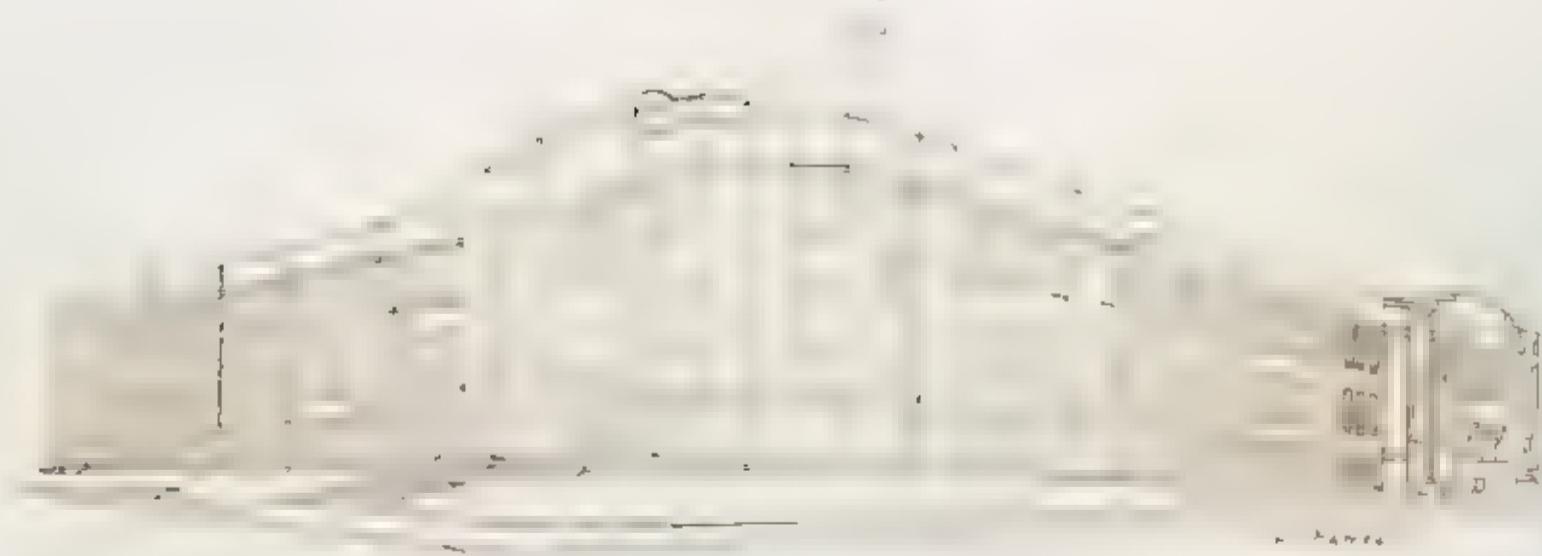

FACULTY and CLASS GROUPS

Muskies Progress Physically, Mentally in Four Years

● Progressing with a typical student through four years of highschool life will help you readers to understand the people in our school. To the verdant freshman, faculty members are gods when he first begins to learn the routine of life in the maze of unfamiliar halls and classrooms. At the end of the year he has lost his self-consciousness enough to smile at the crushing remarks of the older students and to make friends easily.

Concentrating on his studies, the sophomore enters the doors to new interests in our school held open by his teachers. Having learned how to study efficiently he finds time to participate in a few extracurricular activities. During his third year at M. H. S. the average Musky tends to go off the deep end in activities and tends to become polished, poised, and self-confident. He learns to know teachers informally as he works side by side with them in accomplishing some project.

During his senior year he begins making plans for his future vocation and with this in mind, he applies himself to the school curriculum with added fervor. Studying, however, doesn't prevent him from leading the school in its goings-on.

SCHOOLBOARD

Ten Local Men Direct Muscatine Schools Capably

• Muscatine people are justly proud of their Superintendent of Schools. Well over six feet tall, A. A. Johnson makes a striking impression upon his fellow members of the human race with his handsome features, his genial personality, his booming laugh, and his strictly American ideas and ideals. Many of the plans for our new building were the result of his genius. When Muskies come to him for advice he is never too busy carrying out his educatory duties to solve their problems. Many of this year's graduates remember when he held down the job of assistant principal and consequently put them back on the right track when they erred during their freshman days.

• On the mount below are the members of the schoolboard. After taking care of the affairs of their individual businesses, these men turned their attentions to directing the activities of Muscatine schools. Our new school building serves as a tribute to this group who initiated the idea of a new building, convinced local citizens of its necessity, and then carried forth its plan.

Our School is proud of its most efficient teaching staff

One of our principal's well known abilities is telling jokes in assembly.

● Our principal is one man who has a responsibility that a lot of people could never handle. Whether it was the task of supervising a class party or helping to install a loud speaking system, Fred G. Messenger was right on the job. For ten years now he has been principal in our school and everyone feels that he is just the man to hold that position. He commands the respect of all the people with whom he comes in contact.

No one can realize how big this building is until he tries to keep track of F. G. M. Before any important event he uses his nervous energy worrying about little details that might have been forgotten.

PRINCIPAL OF MUSCATINE HIGH

- Once in a while a person forgets that a teacher is a human being like anyone else. It is easy to look at a teacher as just something that every school must have to be a school—that's true, but teachers are real human beings with individual characteristics.

Just like the students this year the different members of the faculty divided into their own little friendship groups and each group had their own ideas of what constituted a good time. Some of the faculty considered going to a movie an enjoyable way to spend leisure hours. Others would be bored with the suggestion, for nothing, in their opinion, could beat an evening of bridge. Some teachers could have an ideal time by going to see a good play at some out of town theater.

Each teacher has some hobby that he is especially interested in—philately, knitting, collecting something, some sort of sport, or maybe it's just reading they like to do that particular thing. That's another qualification that makes them more human.

Everyone has to work—what would the world be without work—and the work of the faculty this year was to see that students got a proper amount of educating. They saw that their pupils were getting all that they should out of their opportunities for life, and that they were learning more than the three R's.

I never always seemed to realize that it was awfully hard to make students study—so they tried to make them want to learn. Sometimes they succeeded, sometimes they didn't. It was all in a day's work.

CLASS OFFICERS

Muskies Admire Students Elected to Offices

• Three members of each class were fortunate enough to be elected to serve as class leaders. The readers of this book probably are wondering why—of the hundreds of students in classes these particular students won the elections. Of course, it was the admiration that other students had for them that earned them the places that they received, but the question is: Why do their classmates admire them?

Bill Block, Don Carver, and George Gallaher won the respect of their friends by their promising work in athletics. It was friendliness, thoughtfulness, and consideration that made the students select Joan McKee, Donna Weber, Elaine Handley, and Thelma Matthiessen as class heads. Richard Koll and John McKee had the natural leadership and executive ability that other Muskies readily recognized.

All nine of these students were active in all school functions. If there were an extra-special task to be done, one of these individuals was there to do it. As is always true the students elect someone who is constantly in the public eye due to their achievements.

STUDENT EMPLOYMENT

Muskies Sell Dresses, Fill Tanks

• The merchants of our town have come to the conclusion that employing students in their places of business is a sound idea. Not only do they attract high school trade, but they readily learn any job from selling tickets in a theater box office to working behind a service counter. Feeling that the readers of The Aurora might be interested in seeing students at their jobs, Fred Marzolph, Aurora reporter, made a brief tour of the town one late Saturday afternoon.

TOP: Bob Nyemans was giving a chance to a purchaser at Grimm's Drug Store. Behind the novelty counter at W. Iwanzik's, Betty Carter spent a typical Saturday. Checking her customer's account was no trouble at all for Dorothy Glatstein, who works in the office at the Furniture Mart.

BOTTOM: Tex Koenig, Mr. Myron Bowe's star tank-filler, was in a more serious mood than usual when he cleaned this particular customer's windshield . . . Several Muskies set up pins at the bowling alley during their spare time . . . Lillian Davison, off-duty at the Chrome Room, was learning all about Spurgeon's new spring dresses from Ruth Weiersheiser.

OUR SCHOOL

These Are the Seniors

● These graduates of our school won't be coming back again to the good times and activities of M. H. S. next September. Seniors, who had the reputation of being anxious to finish school, are beginning to wonder why all the rush. 'S funny how you spend twelve years looking forward to graduation and then are sorry when it comes. Seniors are beginning to realize that what they do after graduation will decide the success or failure of their lives. Such a decision causes a momentary stage fright. The question is: Are our seniors ready to exchange adolescent highschool life for adult problems and situations? Things are a lot different outside the walls of M. H. S.

We label the individuals in this section not highschool graduates but educated people experienced in living peacefully and happily with others.

SENIOR CLASS OF 1941

Graduation Time Brings Hopes, Doubts to Seniors

● Until the last half of their senior year young people are in such a hurry to be graduated and out in the world. Then they begin wondering if they're ready to face those terrible trials of life that their parents and teachers have warned them about. Yes, it's about graduation time that students begin wondering just what that pretty engraved paper is going to really signify for them.

In our school's senior class are all kinds of individuals. Some of them are hard workers, some of them don't like to do any more than they are required to do, and others don't care much about anything in regard to school. Some of the fellows and girls that are graduating didn't make much of a record in M. H. S. either good or bad. Some of those people who aren't listed on the debate squad or National Honor Society are going to college to be more outstanding than our senior class officers. Nobody seems to know why these people don't develop until further on in life. In any event the people who go out and work are sure to get further than their lazier brothers who specialize in procrastination.

But that's enough said for what's going to happen in the future. Each senior was exposed to four years of coaching and advice and fun. On the next page are some of the "big shots" of our school.

Class of 1941 Leads School In Activities

TOP: Lucille Steinmetz received a first division rating at the National Music Contest. She was the chief organist at M. H. S. this year. Bonnie Gabriel, Lois Warner, and Marjorie Van Allen frequently practised chorus selections in the hallway at the piano . . . In the picture below Lucille, Tex Kidd was working on the sports section of the Annual . . . It looked like a strike to Bonnie Gabriel . . . Three chemistry enthusiasts planned a special experiment for a Chemistry Club meeting . . . Albie Goss commented on the student speaker rehearsing before Dorothy LeQuatte, Gordon McLean and Claire Street.

BOTTOM: Three prominent seniors in band, Doug Randleman, Bill Mull, and Paul Hanson often left John Phillip Sousa for an arrangement of Cole Porter . . . Sis Bloom and Marian Kautz, two Varsity executives, started out to solicit Annual advertisements with light steps and smiling expressions . . . There's no need to worry that these seniors won't be replaced because there are plenty of freshmen anxious to take over next year.

• The graduating class of 1941 elected three boys to lead them in their final year of school times at M. H. S. All three—George Parks, Babe Hoffman, and Albie Goss—were before the eyes of the student body from September to June. George, class president, and Babe, vice president, were outstanding in the athletic department, both being on the first string of the basketball squad. The class secretary-treasurer, Albie Goss, achieved a degree of distinction in N. F. L. through his debate work.

ELAINE IRWIN: Working his way through college makes the student more appreciative of his opportunities, and improves his grades since he has little time to study.

DON SPROUSE: My childhood ambition was to be a basketball coach in some high school or university.

DR. ROSELYN GREEN: Girls are of more value to boys than to girls. Eventually the girl marries and her education only serves to make her more repulsive.

CLIFFORD CHANDLER: I can't gain much glory in the machinist trade, but this type of job pays well and I can always be sure of having plenty of honest work.

KITTY ANN WETTEFELD: I'm a competitive person by nature. Stiff competition brings out the best in us.

PAUL HANSON: Practical experience through college is as valuable as higher grades are without this experience. It's all in the way you look at things.

GENEVIEVE CROW: My childhood dreams of becoming a glamorous missionary were proved impractical. Now my ambition is to become a world traveler and author.

EDDIE BARTELT: At the moment I am looking for a nice mother who wouldn't nag — a wife who will let me keep dogs but who will not put me in the doghouse.

CLAUDETTE LEE: I don't think as in the past, the American people would be excessive.

WHAT MUSKIES MAY BECOME.

John Barnard—Admiral in U. S. navy with two girls in each port.
Ollie Bently—King of bowlers (and loafers).
Lillian Davison—Owner of a chain of drive-in stands.
Kenny Duncan—Owner of a cotton plantation.
Robert Barry—Toast of Broadway—the second Lawrence Olivier.
Leo Erickson—Leo the Lion for MGM.
Shirley Essex—Veteran dish washer.
Lloyd Beatty—Painless dentist in the firm of Beatty, Bieri, and Barry.
Herschel Allensworth—Inventor of the Freckle Destroyer Cream (Pat. No. 444441½)

It has been found to be a reasonable certainty that very few big jobs are held by men who honk and honk in a traffic jam.

LIBERTY!

Every student in Muscatine High School should be thankful that he lives in the ONLY country in the world where this word means what it says, and a free education is available.

Be proud you are an American and be ready to guard this sacred heritage left to us by our forefathers.
